

Michael A. Sauri, MD, MPH & TM

Dr. Michael Sauri is a specialist in Occupational Medicine and Infectious Diseases in private practice in Rockville, Maryland since 1987. He is the Medical Director of Occupational Health Consultants (OHC) which services over 130 biomedical research laboratories, including Plum Island Animal Diseases Center. At OHC's Travel Advisory and Immunization Clinic (TAIC), he serves as a Tropical Medicine consultant to international corporations and private travelers.

He received his Medical Degree from Loyola University, Stritch School of Medicine (Chicago) and Masters in Public Health/Tropical Medicine and Hygiene from Tulane University (New Orleans). During his twelve years in the Military, Dr. Sauri received Residency training in General Preventive Medicine in the U.S. Air Force (USAF School of Aerospace Medicine) and General Internal Medicine in the U.S. Army (Brooke Army Medical Center) and Infectious Diseases Fellowship training in the U.S. Navy (Bethesda Navy Hospital). Dr. Sauri received his third Board certification in Occupational Medicine in 1994, was certified in Tropical Medicine in 1997 and is board eligible for Medical Toxicology.

Dr. Sauri is the recipient of numerous awards and decorations from the Department of Defense, the State Department, and State and Local governments. He separated from the military at the rank of Lieutenant Colonel and had the distinction of being the first physician to have been awarded the Humanitarian Service Medal and the Defense Superior Service Medal. He has authored numerous articles in the area of Chemical/Biological Warfare, Medical Care of Refugee/Displaced Populations, Tropical Diseases, and AIDS.

Dr. Sauri is a Clinical Professor at the Johns Hopkins Bloomberg School of Public Health and the Uniformed Services University of Health Sciences. He was selected Occupational Medicine Physician of the Year by the Maryland College of Occupational and Environmental Medicine in 2009. Between 1991 and 2015, Dr. Sauri has been selected consecutively eleven times by his peers as one of the Top Physicians in Internal Medicine and Infectious Diseases and/or Tropical Medicine in the Washington Metropolitan Area.